REDS WILL NOT RULE

Organized labor in the United States is much too wise to permit radicals to bore from within in any serious effort to capture control of the American Federation of Labor, notwithstanding President Green's declaration that this situation is so serious that it requires consideration.

Mr. Green pointed out that the revolution in Russia started among the workers. He said the Russian communistic organization had sent 15 leaders to Mexico to grab up labor organizations. He pointed out that the textile labor difficulties in Massachusetts had been taken over by the radicals, and indications are they will wreck an enterprise which deserves success. Now the reds, Mr. Green declared, are seeking to gain control of the railroad and mine workers' organizations.

A most gloomy picture as Mr. Green paints it, but one who knows the inherent desire of organized labor to keep the radicals out, to prevent labor disputes of any kind, to work with the employer rather than against the employer, will believe that Mr. Green draws such a black outline of the situation for the reason that he wants to impress on the great army of labor the necessity to be forever on the alert against the red menace.

Radicals always are trying to bore from within and undermine from without, but here in the United States labor is so much superior to labor in any other country in the world that the chances of success are remote. If labor in the United States was underpaid, browbeaten, kicked about and made a target for every political ward heeler, then there would be a grand chance for the red disorganizer to find ground in which his seed of discontent might take hold. That is the reason why the radical element always has succeeded in labor uprisings elsewhere.

But labor in the United States occupies a most enviable position. And where any rupture of the economic structure produced by labor disputes, always reacts to the disadvantage of the worker, there is no place for the radical and his discord. It will be well to heed Mr. Green's warning—but Mr. Green need have no fear that the American Federation of Labor will permit itself to disintegrate through the propaganda of bolshevik agitators.

THE COUNTRY IS SAFE

Some time ago there appeared in these columns a digest of Uncle Sam's report upon the number of marriages and divorces among his nieces and nephews during 1926, with comparative figures for other years during a generation or so. The thought was presented at that time that the ratio of divorces over marriage, which often seems alarming, is not, under analysis, as bad as one might at first believe.

Now the Review of Reviews is abashed with the declaration that "old fashioned marriage continues to gain despite divorce evils." This statement is amplified in this fashion: "Though it may be news to some alarmists, divorces show an increase of only 5,000 each year. There still are twenty marriages for every three divorces in the United States."

Come to think of it, there is more of romance in the figures on marriage and divorce which Uncle Sam has just broadcast than is to be found in many a best seller. Take for example, the number of years after marriage when divorce occurs. In 1924 more divorces came in the fifth year than any other, but during 1926, the crisis frequently came two years earlier. It was shown that 8,000 marriages failed to survive even the first year. Thus it would appear that the first six years are the hardest, and more divorces come in those years than in all the remaining period of married life.

And another thing. If there are children there is less likelihood of divorce than where there are no children.

POSTAL RATE DECISION

While one may feel, perhaps, that the Interstate Commerce commission is showing a tendency to follow the line of least resistance in imposing higher rates for mail carrying by the railroads at a time when its general policy appears to be directed toward bringing about a lower level of freight rates, neither this consideration nor the threat of a deficit in the postoffice department alters the material fact that the railroads seem to have been clearly entitled to the advance. Five of the eleven commissioners dissented from the majority finding awarding the carriers the $15,000,000 a year increase, but there seems to have been no considerable difference of viewpoint as to the merits of the roads' basic position. Such exceptions as were taken dealt chiefly with minor points involved in the majority opinion.

Postmaster Gen. New, in combating the efforts of the carriers to obtain their rate increase, was properly discharging his duty to the taxpayers of the country, for it is his job to run his department as efficiently and economically as is within his power. The burden of proof was on the carriers to show that they merited the rate advance, and on this point they seem to have satisfied the commission. It is true that the effect of this increase in expense, along with the granting of subventions to ship lines operating under the American flag, recent pay advances to postal workers, and a reduction of some $16,000,000 in revenues from second, third and fourth class material has temporarily unsettled the postoffice department budget, which threatens now to show a deficit of about $100,000,000. How the budget is to be made to balance, however, is another problem, to which the postmaster general has already turned his attention. The main point for the moment is that it should not be accomplished at the expense of a fair return to the railroads.

It is to be hoped, meanwhile, that the Interstate Commerce commission will be as vigorous in remedying railroad freight rate deficiencies involving commodities in the future as it has been in providing relief for the carriers at the expense of the comparatively inarticulate taxpayer.—New York Herald Tribune.

SITTING ON TOP OF THE WORLD

America is undisputedly on the top of the world, and all the signs are that she will remain there. England was once—and for a very long period—on the top of the world and, partly because she threw a great deal more than she possessed into the war and got nothing at all out of it, she is there no longer. A very good thing, too.

And because America is on top of the world she is disliked by a number of persons. She is disliked, let it be said, by those who know her least, by visitors to a week or two's unsuccessful lectures, or victims of the more self-confident type of American tourist. We, too, were loathed when we were on top of the world by every one who wasn't.

But America is disliked in Europe not only because she is on top, owns most of the world's gold, has almost no income tax and gives every one of her workmen a motor car—this last is said every day somewhere by some Englishman and is quite untrue—but also because her influence is said to be spreading disastrously in Europe and especially in England.

In what does this influence consist? What are the fine qualities of modern America's character? They are I think, vitality, opportunity, warmth of heart, scorn of tradition, equal opportunities for every one, openness of mind, courage. And what are the bad qualities? False values, absence of esthetic standards, restlessness, shallowness, too much common denominator, provincialism, too little depth of knowledge, arrogance, ignorance.

I feel that America is suffering from a false standard of values, and that there is a danger that she will influence Europe unfortunately in this.

A second dangerous direction of influence is toward superficiality; and with this are connected questions of culture, physical restlessness, and peace of mind. Herein, I think lies America's real danger to Europe.—Hugh Walpole in London Graphic.

MOTHERS NO LONGER NEED BE IN DARKNESS

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D., United States Senator from New York, Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

Two or three years ago I gave you a set of rules prepared by the late Dr. Holt, who was a great authority on babies. I want to repeat them, because every mother should be taught the fundamentals of disease prevention. Then her baby will have good health.

The majority of babies dying under two years of age are carried away by diarrheal diseases. Since these diseases are caused by bad feeding, it is important that every mother should know the general rules for the protection of her infant. Here are Dr. Holt's suggestions:

1.—Encouragement of maternal nursing, and the adoption of measures to make this possible, particularly during the summer months.

2.—Education of mothers in all matters relating to the care and hygiene of infants, best through the agency of the milk stations and the visits of a trained district nurse.

3.—Adequate supervision of the milk supply, the general use of pasteurized or sterilized milk during the summer, and furnishing good milk to those too poor to pay for it.

4.—Instruction of mothers in regard to the care of milk in the home and in all matters of artificial feeding.

5.—The constant supervision of artificially fed infants either in the milk station or by visits to the home.

To carry out these suggestions it is necessary to have a community program. In the cities the boards of health provide all the facilities for giving them effect. It is more difficult in the rural districts and small towns.

I am sure nobody can study Dr. Holt's rules without realizing that infant care must be conducted in a systematic and scientific manner. A mother should not depend on her own knowledge or even on the advice of her immediate family and friends.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, August 11.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE.

THE astral auguries point to a day of fairly lively and progressive conditions, although there is some slight hazard in speculation or other risk of finances. The mind should be keen and the judgment sound, thus avoiding pitfalls and loss. With prudence new ventures may prosper, but sign papers with care. In the domestic, social and affectional connections, harmony and good will flourish.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a fairly active and interesting year, with matters flourishing, if speculation and money risk be shunned. Personal contact should bring happiness and satisfaction. A child born on this day may be talented and accomplished, with a studious as well as a gracious mind. It should succeed in many avenues of application.

In the vessel you fashion will your meat and drink be served.—Glen Buck.

Moving mountains is a little thing compared to what political bores promise to do. Here are two Texas Republicans who have deserted Hoover and promise to carry with them 250,000 votes in a state which gave Coolidge only 130,000 votes.—Boston Transcript.

The methods of fighting fire are infinitely better today than they were a generation or two ago. Bringing up babies has improved even to a greater degree. Every mother should give her child the benefit of this wider and important knowledge.

The importance of individual care for the given infant cannot be overstated. It is not possible to lay down any firm and fast rules which apply to all babies. Peculiar and unusual conditions will be met. Particular care must be given to the baby that does not thrive. It needs special attention. Then it is that the mother must be advised by somebody who knows all about the welfare of infants.

Within reach of every mother is a good doctor. No matter if you are poor he will be glad to advise you. You must not let your pride prevent asking for advice—the welfare of your precious infant is at stake.

Nine Dyes For Begg

Supporters of Cooper's candidacy made public what was said to be a copy of a telegram from Congressman Nicholas Longworth, Cincinnati, speaker of the national house of representatives, endorsing Cooper. In this telegram, Longworth was credited with pledging Cooper his "wholehearted and active support in the coming primary."

Nine Ohio dry leaders issued a joint statement urging dry Republicans of the Buckeye State to vote for Begg next Tuesday. The statement was signed by E. R. Root, Medina; former Atty. Gen. C. C. Crabbe, Columbus; Mrs. Lillian Burt of Columbus; Judge W. V. Aldridge, Delaware; Lester D. Hill, Bowling Green; Rev. Paul T. Gilbert, Bowling Green; W. J. Dankes, dean of the University of Akron; N. C. Sherwood, Fremont, and Mrs. Maybelle Heister, Norwalk, superintendent of the Purity league of the Ohio Christian Endeavor, also a member of the W. C. T. U., it was announced.

Witter is "Smith Man"

The statement asserted that, due to the recent action of Ohio Anti-Saloon League officials in endorsing Cooper's candidacy and failing to approve that of Begg, "a grave situation" faces Ohio voters. Former Lieut. Gov. Charles H. Lewis, Harpster, and President William F. Pierce, Kenyon College, it was stated, endorsed Begg's candidacy.

Addressing a picnic and rally conducted here under the auspices of the Franklin County Democratic Women's club, Herman R. Witter, Canton, state director of industrial relations, and a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, endorsed the policies of Governor Vic Donahey and said he is "a Smith man."

Director of Agriculture Charles V. Truax, a candidate for U. S. senator, favored improvement of agricultural conditions on a nation-wide basis.

Bloom Attacks Davey

George White, Marietta, also an aspirant for the U. S. senatorship, characterized Gov. Al Smith as the "outstanding statesman of his time." Attorney Graham P. Hunt, Cincinnati, seeking the senatorial toga, accused the Anti-Saloon League and the Republican party with conspiring to "cheat Ohio out of proper representation in congress."

Commerce Director Earl Bloom, Bowling Green, former lieutenant governor, questioned the promise of Congressman Martin L. Davey, Kent, to save $5,000,000 in taxes if elected governor of Ohio. "If he can show me how he can save $5,000,000 in taxes, I will vote for him myself," said Bloom, who, also, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. Replying to Bloom, Davey said the next governor would be a Democrat and that he would have the support of a Democratic state legislature.

Peter Witt, Cleveland, seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said Ohio will not go Democratic this fall unless the gubernatorial candidate nominated next Tuesday by the Democrats of Ohio is in sympathy with Al Smith. Witt said he is "a Smith Man."

Gilberts Give Concert

The program in the evening at the chautauqua tent was given by Gilbert and his company of singers who presented the "Golden Memories."

The presentation was divided into three parts and included sacred music, modern selections and songs that were popular in the 60's.

The selections included: "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," "Crossing the Bar," "The Italian Street Song," "The Volga Boatman," "My Ohio Home," "Dawn," "Sweet Genevieve," "Just a Song at Twilight," "Among My Souvenirs," and "Home Sweet Home."

Snyder Is Speaker

"The greatest danger to our flag and country is individual indifference," according to Frederick M. Snyder, of New York city, who gave a lecture on "Up In Arms, With Empty Hands," at the Redpath chautauqua Thursday afternoon.

Civic questions of the day, crime conservation, agriculture and the playtime we have were discussed by Mr. Snyder.

In an interview with President Coolidge, Mr. Snyder was told that our greatest civic problem is the promotion of health.

This conclusion has been reached by the president after it had been reported that 600,000 died in 1927 from preventable diseases. Mr. Snyder stated.

Mr. Snyder warned his auditors against the enemies of health.

"The boys and girls are most important product in Salem, in them are great possibilities," the speaker pointed out.

Children Have Picnic

The children of Junior Town enjoyed a picnic supper at the chautauqua grounds Thursday evening.

At the morning meeting Miss Ruth Zimmerman, of Ohio university, who is directing the work of Junior Town, told some interesting stories.

Your Support Will Be Appreciated — Republican Primaries Tuesday, August 14, 1928

Professor And 14 Aides To Study Agricultural Mexico

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Fifteen trained field workers from the department of geography at the University of Chicago, headed by Prof. Robert S. Platt, have left for six weeks of extensive field work in the heart of agricultural Mexico. Their aim is to gather material for a book on "Occupancy Patterns of Population in Relation to the Natural Environment of the Valley of Mexico."

Little scientific work has been done in the human geography of the region around Mexico City. The University of Chicago workers will analyze typical communities in the valley, particularly in the Teotihuacan district, and make a broad survey of the highland agricultural territory. Leaving the Englewood Union station tomorrow at 8:45 a. m. they will arrive at Torreon, Mexico, where special facilities have been provided by the Mexican government. They will study the cotton and cattle haciendas there, and proceed to Mexico City, which will be their headquarters for three weeks of reconnaissance in the surrounding districts, particularly Paschusa, Toluca, Guernavaca and Puebla.

Study Localities

The general method will be to assign each worker to a particular portion of the locality being studied to make maps and charts of population distribution, social and economic organization, transportation facilities, exchange of products, and related problems. These maps and reports will be fitted together for the general report. According to Professor Platt this method of combining constructive research work with the training of advanced graduate students with the new, having been introduced by the University of Chicago geographers two years ago.

From Mexico City the party will proceed to the coffee haciendas and power plant at Orizaba, to the banana and sugar haciendas around Vera Cruz, to San Luis Potosi, Tampico and to Monterey before returning to the United States.

Farm Conditions

"Though we are particularly interested in the existing conditions in agricultural Mexico, particularly in the typical semi-isolated communities, the historical background of the natives, is also important for its contribution to their present status," says Professor Platt. "A large proportion of the peon class are Indians, whose pre-Columbian culture was equal to that of the better known Mayas in the lowland districts. Their ancient culture, represented in the monuments and pyramids of the central plateau, and their present status as a conquered race have an important bearing on the central problem."

The members of the expedition, with the exception of Professor Platt, are graduate students of ge-

Bancitaly Executive Met At Station By Crowd Of Excited Folk

New York, Aug. 10.—His career smashed by Wall street speculation, Cornelius Callahan was brought home from Montreal today to "face the music."

The 28-year-old executive is accused of embezzling funds from the Bancitaly corporation, where he started his business life and had gained a high rung on the ladder of success.

Scores of excited depositors and investors in Bancitaly were at Grand Central terminal when Callahan arrived on the Montreal limited, accompanied by Detective James McKittrick from police headquarters, who had been sent to Canada for the prisoner.

Callahan's market speculation was more extensive than it was at first believed, police said today after further delving into his records. He had accounts with numerous other brokers beside the five whose names appeared on checks presented to the grand jury which indicted him for grand larceny.

HEIMACH SAVES DAY FOR YANKS

Mackman Liscard Hurls Huggins Crew to Win Over Red Sox

New York, Aug. 10.—The sleight-of-hand ability of Professor Miller Huggins, director of those temperamental Yankees, today is the envy of 15 other big league managers. The professor never pulled a rabbit out of a hat, but he demonstrated an even better trick yesterday when he pulled a crackerjack pitcher from the minors.

The pitcher who put the Yankees right back into the thick of the American League pennant scrap was Lefty Heimach; and his successful comeback set Connie Mack to gnashing his teeth because Heimach once was discarded by the Athletics. The A's traded him to the Boston Red Sox, whom he held to 4 hits yesterday in his first start as a Yank. Lefty struck out eight men and retired 15 consecutive batters after the first inning, the Yanks winning 7 to 1.

Sharing the spotlight with Heimach were Howard Ehmke and Al Simmons of the Athletics. Ehmke held the Senators to 3 with the aid of Polish Al, who smacked an important home run with the bases loaded. The Mackmen are still 4½ games behind the Yanks.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who have lost four of their last five starts, now lead the Giants by only four games in the National League scramble. The Pirates hung up their straight win and advanced to within a game and a half of the third-place Cubs when they whipped the Cards yesterday, 5 to 4. The Bucs knocked Haines for three runs in the first inning while Hill and Grimes checked St. Louis after Frisch hit a homer with one on.

Other teams did not play.

Widen Channel of Creek Under Bridge

A steam shovel has been put to work widening the channel of the stream flowing under the new concrete bridge at Cannons Mill on the East Liverpool-Youngstown rd. During recent heavy rains the channel of the creek was not of sufficient depth and width to carry away the water, and the creek overflowed its northeast bank and flooded several houses.

The channel is to be widened and deepened for a distance of about 100 feet on either side of the new bridge.

Makuska was employed by the Truscon Steel Co. and had made his home on the farm with his wife and Swimming Stadium, Amsterdam, Aug. 10.—Walter Lauffer, today won the first heat of the 100-meter free style Olympic event, defeating Takahashi, of Japan, in one minute and 43.4 seconds.

The "human fish" thrashed through the water at a fast clip, timing in one minute and 43.4 seconds.

Canada was second in the semi-final and 44 of a second.

Weissmuller was not pressed by the Canadian and led at the finish.

George Kojac of New York, the national champion who twice won the world record for the 100-meter free style, won the third heat, timing in one minute, one and 3-5 seconds.

Schubert, of Germany, second place.

U. S. To Adopt Lighter Golf Ball Suggested By British Committee

Suggestions Same As Made by Americans In 1925 And Would Stop Long Hitting; Jones Records Cause of Attitude

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Aug. 10.—The lighter golf ball almost surely is coming into adoption, perhaps immediately but certainly within two years time.

This was the semi-official sentiment expressed today at the headquarters of the United States Golf Association on Great Britain's proposal to curtail long hitting by the introduction of a larger and lighter ball. The American officials merely were awaiting the arrival of Henry Gulien, secretary of the Royal and Ancient committee of St. Andrews, with British suggestions for the proposed new ball before committing themselves definitely.

The British official will arrive on Monday aboard the Baltic and much of the preliminary detail, looking toward the proposed adoption of this ball, will be cleared up in conferences with various U. S. G. A. bodies, including the ball and the implement committee. These conferences will be held largely for the purpose of learning British official sentiment on the question, the Americans admitting that they are strictly on the defensive in this matter.

U. S. Suggested Same

"If the British ask for what they are supposed to want, a ball of 1.55 ounces in weight and 1.68 inches in diameter, I don't see how we can do other than accept the proposal, whole hog," declared one American official today. "For the specifications quoted are exactly those that we proposed in 1925, only to have the English decline to sanction the idea. They apparently have changed their minds but we can't afford to change ours. We sponsored the idea and must stand behind it."

The official vote on the proposal will be taken by the executive committee during the amateur championship at Brae Burn in September. This vote, according to the word passed along, is likely to follow the lead of the Royal and Ancient decision, which also will be handed down in September. It is believed that Secretary Gulien already has the forecast of that vote in his pocket, so that his arrival on Monday probably will ordain the nature of the action to be taken.

Jones 285 Did It

That the British have seen fit to do a right-about-face on their refusal of Bill Fownes' plan in 1925 is directly attributed here to the record 285 with Bobby Jones humbled their famous St. Andrews course in the British championship. The sentiment of the British public is not behind the proposed change—a straw vote was almost unanimously in favor of a retention of the present ball—but officialdom on the other side has looked with no great favor on the flouting their traditions received when Jones last won their title.

On one thing, they are adamant. They refuse to alter hallowed St. Andrews, Bobby's performance would seem to demand. They haven't the money for the operation, either, and besides, the municipality wouldn't permit what it undoubtedly would term such a violation of its links shrine.

Therefore, it is assumed that fear of what the wind of its seaside course would do to a lighter ball influenced England's stand in 1925. And fear of what Jones might do to its most esteemed of all courses when he goes back there again is supposed to have been the abiding influence in determining their present attitude. This attitude also is believed to have become virtually established and official, in view of the fact that the British, always conservative, have seen fit to take the initiative by opening negotiations.

Two Years For New Ball

American manufacturers, when questioned in the matter, have declared that, if the exterior of the ball is to be changed, they cannot produce the required sphere within two years. However, they declare that the resiliency of the present ball, which takes care of the carrying power, can be reduced at will by an alteration in its winding. Therefore, after getting all manufacturers to agree on the process, such a ball—having the size and the weight but not the carrying length of the ball now used—could be placed on the market at a very early moment.

In either case the manufacturers intimated that they would continue

"CHINATOWN CHARLIE"

Johnny Hines and Louise Lorraine are the leaders in the screen adaptation of Owen Davis' famous story "Chinatown Charlie" which is at the State tonight and Saturday. Johnny is a "caller" on a Chinatown sightseeing bus and one day while on duty meets Miss Lorraine who has a famous Chinese ring on her hand which a band of Chinese, led by Fred Kohler try to steal. Johnny keeps the ring for her and while visiting a museum, she is kidnapped by the mandarin and his band.

A series of comic riots then occur when Johnny disguises as the mandarin and attempts to effect her escape, which he does with the aid of his pal Red Mike played by Harry Gribben, who with five other male members of the cats form a human chain with which Miss Lorraine and Hines are swung from the top of a high building to ground level.

The picture is placed in a Chinese atmosphere that is interesting and dramatic. Anna May Wong and Sojin take part as leaders of the Chinese band.

Fables and a comedy "Sweeties" is at the State with the feature.

"NONE BUT THE BRAVE"

"None but the Brave" which is at the Grand tonight and tomorrow is a comedy romance with a novel angle on the college boy "show off" who is well-confidence itself, boasts of how good he is and makes good with his boasts—while in college.

Leaving college, he finds life a different proposition. He finds that the world cares nothing about the fact that he was a four letter-man in college, that he won football games for his Alma Mater with thrilling last second runs or did other valorous athletic deeds. He is forced to buck up and dig for himself, and faces real hardships and many disappointments before he finally succeeds.

Charles Morton is the college "hero" who is cast on the world with the hope that Wall Street would soon be making him an offer to give them his endorsement and insure its success in transactions, while Sally Phipps is the other half of the featured cast.

Morton works at everything from selling bonds and insurance to life guard at a bathing beach in "None but the Brave."

Not at all a comedy affair, it has its serious side, which with the carnival of fun make it an enjoyable picture.

STYLE EDICTS

Paris, Aug. 10.—Seaside shoes are divided into two classes this summer—those for sand and those for water.

The best of the sand shoes have wooden soles which may have high or flat heels as one may choose. In any event, they are merely caught about the feet with wide straps of leather which are gilded, painted or embroidered in a variety of patterns. Some of them have quaint little velvet tops over the toes which make one think of the little "clogs" the Italian mountaineers wear.

The rubber shoes for those who dare go near the water are as supple as a ballet slipper and come in the brightest combinations possible. Sandals entirely woven of narrow strands of leather are very smart for holiday wear. They are very closely interwoven so as to insure a perfect fit. Low or medium heels are the rule. Three-color schemes are popular and can be chosen to harmonize with a half a dozen frocks.

Crepe-soled shoes with the tops of plaited leather are very comfortable for country wear. They are made in simple sandal models in white or brown leather with low heels or a bit higher for afternoon wear.

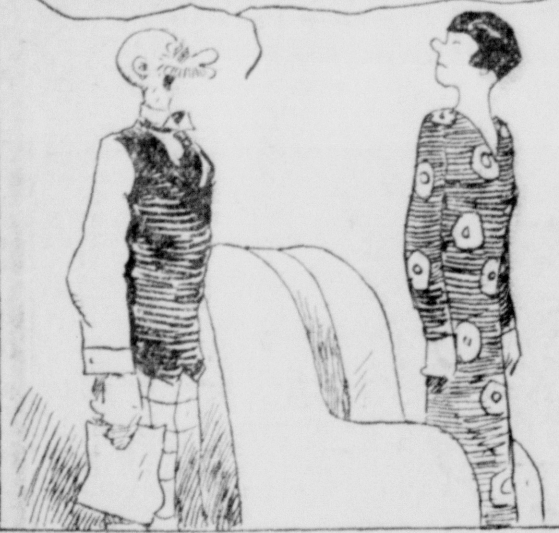

Straps are still an important feature of smart shoes, but they are arranged in such a way that they do not hide any of the grace of the foot, while the shoe itself is often cut away near the instep to show the beauty of a dainty arch. Edith is showing a lovely lizard skin in beige with heels and straps in kid to match. Another in kid of pastel tint is perforated and woven in squares with leather in deeper tones than the shoe itself.

The School of Good Manners

Standard rules for children's conduct have been shaken in recent years. Modern children are worldly-wise; they think and act quickly without advice or permission as no old-fashioned child would have thought of doing. The rod is not only spared, it is almost extinct as a first aid to good behavior. Mental methods have taken its place.

"Do not attempt to monopolize conversation, but in the presence of superiors speak not until spoken to, and bid to speak." Could we convince parents that their children are not as interesting to strangers as to themselves this rule would become active for the benefit of all concerned. Most good precepts should be taught and well absorbed by the time the child is eight. They then become second nature.

If a child is allowed to hold its table implements in the wrong way it becomes a habit that is hard to break and the child only realizes its awkwardness when among strangers. It takes infinite time and patience to keep putting the little fork or spoon into the right fingers, but it pays in the end.

It is hard to conduct ourselves in an irreproachable manner, yet as parents we are living examples and our children acquire many manners and customs in this way that are desirable.

It is the little undesirable things that must be weeded out constantly while we encourage the better ideas. The finest instruments of speed are so nicely adjusted that they accomplish all that is expected of them without any feeling of hurry. That is the way with our children's adjustment to the rapid age into which they have been born; they may be taught to make haste slowly, to have mind and body in complete accord, to accomplish perfectly though quickly everything they are called upon to do.

LOSE ELECTION MAY RESULT IN DIRECT SYSTEM

Neither Candidate Might Get Sufficient Votes To Get Presidency

Washington, Aug. 10.—A closely contested and bitterly fought presidential election this year may precipitate demands for changes in the nation's political system far more important than the choosing of a chief executive for another four years from next March 4.

Direct election of presidents and appointment of congress, bringing with it a new distribution of electoral votes, already are being suggested with renewed emphasis on the eve of the formal opening of campaign hostilities.

Should either Gov. Alfred Smith or Herbert Hoover be placed in the White House on next March 4 with the receiving of a majority of all the votes cast for presidential electors, which is possible under the electoral college system, demands for a change are sure to be made in the next session of congress.

Popular Vote

Many presidents have been elected by less than a majority of votes and the injection of the European system into the political structure of the nation has been avoided by the continued dominance of the Republican and Democratic parties. Should the Socialist or Farmer-Labor parties rise to an prominence where they could command many millions of votes the unique electoral college system would be brought more forcibly before the people.

With electoral votes apportioned man for man among the states on the basis of congressional representation many inequalities are certain to be reflected in presidential returns. The system, however, has been defended on the ground that it is the keystone of the representative system of government as distinguished from a pure democracy.

An elector in Nevada represents 22,000 votes while one in New York represents approximately 220,000. Each state is voted as a unit, and therefore it is just as effective for a presidential candidate to carry a state by one vote as it is to carry it by 500,000. This system makes it possible for a candidate to carry enough states by a small margin to furnish the necessary electoral votes, while the unsuccessful candidate might gain great majorities in some other states which would give him the greater popular vote.

34 States Affected

Added to the disproportion is the failure of congress to reapportion congressional representation since 1911, although reapportionment every ten years. In the recent fight for reapportionment in congress it was shown that the representation of congress of 34 states would be effected by a new division based upon the most recent census. The electoral vote also would change.

Any reapportionment, it is pointed out, must necessarily give more power to the great cities which have increased so rapidly in population. Some historians believe that the electoral vote division, like representation in the senate, was intended to check the possibility of sectional control of national affairs.

Many presidents, among them Woodrow Wilson and Grover Cleveland, received less than a majority of the total votes cast. Abraham Lincoln was re-elected by 55 per cent of the popular vote but with 30 per cent of the electoral vote.

The late Sen. La Follette urged a constitutional amendment to permit popular election of presidents and Sen. George Norris of Nebraska has announced that he will de-Lake Milton, Wednesday and was vote much time to bringing this badly smashed. The pilot, Harry C. foothold so long as the electoral without injury.

PLANE CRASHES AT LAKE MILTON

Youngstown, Aug. 10.—A new Waco-10 airplane crashed in mak-crash, according to witnesses. Then ing a landing near Catalpa Grove, he dropped the plane close to the ground over an open field. He attempted to zoom the little plane but it could not gain altitude fast enough and he tried to land, the witnesses say. The plane turned over on its nose when it hit a bad bump.

The plane was only several weeks old and had been flying passengers from the Catalpa Grove field for several days.

Army Man Will Head Health Service On O. S. U. Campus

Columbus, Aug. 10. — Reorganization of the student health service, Ohio State university, with a new medical personnel and on a new operating basis was announced today.

The service safeguards the general health of the university community of more than 10,000 persons.

Col. James S. Wilson, U. S. army retired, was named director of the service. Since 1923 Col. Wilson has been assistant professor of public health in the college of medicine. The student health service, under the new arrangement, will be under the supervision of Dean J. H. Upham of the college of medicine.

Four Assistants
Col. Wilson was graduated in medicine in 1892 from the University of Virginia. Four years later he was graduated from the army medical school and in 1924 from the army service school. He received a master of science degree here in 1921. From 1910 to 1914 he was professor of tropical diseases at the University of Vermont.

Assisting Col. Wilson as associate directors will be Drs. M. F. Osborn, Harry LeFever, Shirley Armstrong and Margaret Robertson. Dr. W. E. Duffee, of the men's division of physical education, will be attached to the service as consultant.

Dr. Osborn, a son of Prof. Herbert Osborn, research professor of entomology here, comes to the health service from the U. S. Veterans Bureau at Cincinnati. He was graduated from Starling-Ohio Medical college, since absorbed by Ohio State, in 1912 and until the war was in private practice. During the war he was overseas with the 37th division, holding the rank of captain in the medical corps. Since the war he has been with the Veterans Bureau.

Charge Fee For Service
Dr. LeFever, for the past year an instructor in medicine, is a graduate of Jefferson Medical college. Drs. Armstrong and Robertson are on the staff of the women's division of physical education. Col. Wilson succeeds Dr. H. S. Wingert who died several months ago and who had been head of the service since its inception.

The health service will be financed by part of an additional fee per quarter per student authorized by the board of trustees. While the emphasis of the service will be on preventive medicine through education, it will give first treatment or medical reference to students suffering from chronic injury or disease and will advise students in matters concerning health and personal hygiene.

Will Advise Deans
It will furnish students with medical excuses from classes and will act in an advisory capacity to deans where the physical ability of a student to carry class work is concerned. It will acquaint the parents or the family physician of a student with his health stands when advisable.

Where it is necessary to send a student to a hospital, the health service will make an inspection of the case and will give the student two days' free hospitalization per year. All other charges, however, will be met by the student.

Other functions of the health service will be to co-operate with the physical education department in leading the physical examination required of all new students and to aid campus officials in the "inspection, supervision and maintenance of general sanitation and safety throughout the university."

The new staff will begin its duties Sept. 1. The service will be located as heretofore in Hayes hall, with a registered nurse in attendance.

To Represent U. S.

E. B. Stouffer, dean of the University of Kansas Graduate School and a professor of mathematics at the college, who will represent the United States at the International Mathematical Congress in Bologna, Italy.

Sues For Divorce
Hazel E. Wilson of East Liverpool has filed a petition for divorce in common pleas court against her husband Frank E. Wilson, who, the plaintiff declares in her affidavit, is now residing in Los Angeles, Cal., with another married woman and her child as man and wife. Wilson is charged with adultery.
The couple were married at Chester, W. Va., June 30, 1911, and have two children aged 15 and five years, the custody of which she seeks. The plaintiff seeks a decree and alimony for the support of the minors.

Juvenile Court Work
Only one juvenile case has been made a matter of record in probate court since early in May, according to the juvenile court docket, although Judge Lodge Riddle has disposed of probably a dozen non-support cases in the same length of time.
There has been marked apathy in juvenile court work during the last few months, yet a few children have been made wards of the court.
Probation Officers McShane and McCready have not had occasion to bring many juvenile charges into court, but they have been active in making investigations of cases that have been called to their attention in their respective territories.
The bulk of the work in probate court for many months has had to do with the settlement of estates and the determination of inheritance taxes.

WELCOME, BOB McCULLOCH
We are glad you are back home again. We know your trip to Scotland must have been a very pleasant one, never-the-less, we missed you, while you were gone and are glad to welcome you home.

AROUND TOWN
We have been admiring the new retail store of the Victor Stove Co. It is nice-appearing and adds to the appearance of our business section.

THE OTHER DAY
We had a lady come into our market, who lives in Pittsburgh, Pa. She ordered 3 lbs. of H. A. Canadian Bacon. She explained that she was visiting some people in town and they had served this brand of Canadian Bacon. Just as soon as she tasted it, she knew it was the Genuine H. A. brand, as she used to live in Toronto, Canada, and was acquainted with it. Since leaving Canada, they had never had the opportunity to buy it. She was leaving for Pittsburgh and was taking it home to surprise the family.

We receive H. A. Canadian Bacon fresh weekly direct from Canada.

Officer Stouffer: "I'll have to give you a ticket lady. Your tail light isn't lit."
Girl Driver: "But officer, I don't know how to back the car anyhow."

WHO'S WHO AT FULTS
This week we introduce Geo. Fultz, the owner of the Salem Flour Mill. George makes the famous "Success" flour, and let us tell you this flour lives up to its name. It is a success in every way. George has been making flour for years and years. His reward is in knowing that Success Flour and Gilt Edge Pastry Flour are the best that can be made.

For your next sack of flour, buy Success or Gilt Edge — Salem products that stand the test. Oh, yes! We almost forgot to tell you! We sell 'em here.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES
At lowest possible prices, quality considered.

DO YOU READ JIGGS?
He likes corn beef and cabbage, you will too, if you try our home made Corn Beef. We make it in our own kitchen.

Patient: "Doctor, how are my chances?"
Doctor: "Oh, pretty good, but I wouldn't start reading any continued stories."

LARGE GAIN IN BANKS IN OHIO

State-Supervised Banks Show Two Millions In Resources Now

Columbus, Aug. 10.—That "extraordinary gains" are shown by the combined resources and deposits of Ohio's state-supervised banks was the statement made today by E. H. Blair, state superintendent of banks. Blair announced that these financial institutions on June 30, last, had resources totaling $2,371,407,719 and deposits aggregating $1,976,259,385, "the largest totals in the banking history of the state."

"The increase in enormous volume of business handled by the reporting institutions materially strengthens Ohio's rank as the fifth largest banking state in the United States," said Blair.

"Between June 30, 1927, and June 30, last, resources increased $130,435,991 and deposits increased $99,588,597," Blair continued. "Between the calls of Feb. 28, last, and June 30, last, resources and deposits increased $67,943,235 and $49,751,143, respectively (by the term 'the calls' Blair means the calls issued by the State Banking department for reports on the condition of these banks)."

"Savings deposit totals, which aggregated $960,443,462 on June 30, last, are particularly gratifying," Blair stated.

"In this type of deposits during the year there was a gain of $82,545,629 and between Feb. 28, last, and June 30, a gain of $37,827,209. "To the credit of the people of the state, it may be asserted that there has been a consistent and steady growth in their savings accounts for several years, a trend which reflects high standards of living and an economic situation in the commonwealth which is decidedly reassuring."

Complete Skeleton Of Ancient Human Brought to U. of C.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—What is possibly the first complete skeleton of ancient man to be found in North Africa was brought to this city by Paul Nesbit, 24-year-old graduate of the University of Chicago. Nesbit has been in North Africa as head of the Logan-Belot expedition.

The skeleton, found in strata that is dated about 30,000 years ago, will be studied by the university faculty, and is expected to be of great scientific importance in determining questions relating to the origin of man.

Among other discoveries by the expedition is an "escargotiere." This is a mound 400 feet in length and practically 300 feet wide varying in depth from five to twelve feet, built entirely of the shells of snails on which prehistoric man lived. In addition to the shell's several ostrich eggs were found, some of which were engraved.

Prior to the discovery of the ancient skeleton, the expedition worked in the neighborhood of Mechta-El-Arbi, finding several incomplete skeletons.
